

NEWS FROM OUR BOYS

Robert S. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Elliott of 264 South State street, was recently inducted into the Navy and is now at the U. S. Naval Training station at Bainbridge Md. receiving his boot training.

Before entering the naval service he was employed as executive sports editor of the Miami Herald at Miami, Fla. He started in newspaper work as a reporter and sports writer for The Marion Star in 1930 following graduation from Harding High school and a course of study at Denison university at Greenville, O. In later years he worked in the editorial department of newspapers at East Liverpool, Canton and Akron, O., going from Akron to Miami about two years ago.

His wife, the former Miss Merry Shepherd of Marion, is living in Miami with her mother, Mrs. Carmen Shepherd, and is employed as secretary to the advertising manager of the Herald.

Mr. Elliott is the third of his family to enter the armed services. One brother, John R. Elliott, is a sergeant in an Army Engineers' training unit at Camp Sisson, N. C., and another, William P., is first sergeant in the station medical detachment at Harding Field, Army air base near Baton Rouge, La. Both brothers were members of the news and editorial staff of The Marion Star at the time of their induction into the Army.

John E. Ruth Jr., aviation machinist mate second class, is home on leave just in time to see his brother, Frank, off to the navy training station at Great Lakes, Ill. John, who is 19, enlisted in the Navy on Dec. 5, 1941, just two days before the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Frank who is 17 enlisted on Sept. 6 and left for "boot" training today.

Up to the time the Ruth boys joined the Navy they lived with their parents Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ruth Sr. on a farm near Claridon. Both attended Claridon High school.

Wellington Black has been advanced from the rank of corporal technician to sergeant technician, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Black of 845 Merkle avenue, Sgt. Black has been stationed at Camp Cook, Calif., but is now on maneuvers.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Winslow of near Marion have received word that their son, Sgt. Harold Winslow, has been accepted as an aviation cadet and that he received one of the highest grades ever given in an examination at the center at Barksdale Field, La. Prior to his induction he was employed by the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Mrs. George W. Pfeifferer of 128 North Seffner avenue has returned from Kingsville, Tex., after visiting her husband, Lt. J. R. George W. Pfeifferer, who is an instructor in recognition and gunnery at the Naval air training school in Kingsville, La. Pfeifferer received his schooling in Columbus, O., and Purcell, Okla.

Hours of Planning Go Into Few Minutes' Clicking of Cameras

Director Hathaway Runs Whole Show As Movie Colony Goes To Work; First Day's Weather Bad.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

"First team! All ready! Don't look up here folks, keep watching the track and talking among yourselves—don't look up here—come on Jeanne!"

With these orders from Director Henry Hathaway of the Twentieth Century-Fox studio, some 50 or more Marion area residents occupying boxes and seats in the grandstand at the Marion county fairgrounds did exactly as they were told, Starlet Jeanne Crain came tripping up the steps to take her place in a box with Starlet June Haver, Charles Dingle and Robert Condon, the filming of a scene in the $2,000,000 technicolor racing picture, "Home in Indiana," was on, and Marion made its debut in motion pictures.

Marion folks will see this when the picture is released—the scenes come in the climax of the story—but what will not be seen in the picture is the huge camera housed in a "barney" (a big box to keep out sound) the long boom to which was attached a microphone, huge reflectors to cut the shadows, the electricians at their posts, Carey O'Neil, who is in charge of the ladies' wardrobe scrutinizing costumes for details, Marie Walter, hair stylist, scanning the blond heads of the two starlets for a hair that might be awry—(there wasn't!) Kathleen Fagan, the script girl, pencil poised for checking, and a bevy of other staff employees working behind the scenes.

Tremendous Task

It's no boy's chore to film a scene which may not last more than a couple of split seconds in the picture—so much depends on so many things. Yesterday the weatherman was not very cooperative—the sun shown intermittently and much of the time it did shine there were no races on. Only one or two scenes were shot.

Work for the cast begins at 8 and yesterday found those taking part in the scene in makeup and on the job at that time. Platforms for the huge lighting equipment were in place, the camera was loaded—it takes three rolls of film, red, blue and green for technicolor—and everything was in readiness for the day's work. Director Hathaway's word is law on the lot. Henry Wetherger, as his assistant, sees to it that his orders are carried out, and he in turn has an assistant whose job it is to see that the actors are on time. "First team" is studio parlance for the players themselves, not stand-ins. Dick Mueller, a former Toledo resident, and who was in charge of the technicolor work for "Gone With the Wind," checks with cameraman Eddie Cronjager, the "loader" loads the camera and the stage is set for action. The equipment for the day is housed beneath the grandstand.

Send Film to Studio

When two, three or four thousand feet of film have been done in a day the films are shipped to the studio each night. When a day like yesterday comes along to use Miss Fagan's words, "there won't be much to send to the studio tonight." Miss Fagan incidentally, has the tough job of remembering whether the star was wearing a hat when the first part of the scene was shot, perhaps weeks before, whether coats are on or off, that Charles Dingle's cigar should be pretty well smoked up by the time a half hour has elapsed in the picture, and scores of other details.

Two big jobs of the day are the unloading and packing up of all equipment morning and evening. This is the business of Mack Elliott, an old timer in the motion picture game and head "grip."

Colorful Costumes

For the filming of yesterday's scene, Starlet Jeanne Crain wore a beige corduroy jumper, turquoise challis blouse ruffled around the neck and a daisy in her hair. Starlet June Haver's costume was a red and green checked tweed suit, gray wool blouse and a shawl of the same material as her suit, gray hat, black gloves and black suede pumps. Both carried seat cones. The gowns were designed by Bonnie Cashin, designer at the studio, and the last word in smartness. Jeanne plays the part of "Char Bruce" and June's "Cri Cri Boole" in the picture. Condon, who seems to have what it takes in looks, is a handsome lad of 20, with a genial personality. His part in the picture called for a brown checked coat, harmonizing trousers and black and red tie. Dingle, in brown, was the perfect type for his role of race horse owner.

The starlets are accompanied on the tour by their mothers, Mrs. Marie Haver and Mrs. L. A. Crain. Miss Haver, who is 17, is still in school and has classes every day under the supervision of Miss Berdina Anderson, an accredited high school teacher, authorized by the Los Angeles board of education. She has three hours' study each day, is a good student, very much interested in literature and likes to write, her teacher says. Teaching children of the movie colony is not new to Miss Anderson, who spends much of her time in this work on the studio sets and also on tour. She numbers among her pupils Mickey Rooney.

Former Cincinnatians

There are two other daughters in the Haver family and Mr. Haver is in production control with the Douglas Aircraft. The family formerly lived in Cincinnati where June started her music career at the age of seven years.

Mr. Crain is head of the language department of the high school at Inglewood, Calif. A fourth member of the family is a daughter, Rita, aged 10, who "hasn't decided what she wants to do," Mrs. Crain said. June likes to write songs and stories.

and is writing the story of the trip. Jeanne, who is a figure skater, likes tennis, swimming and art, is keeping a diary of the trip.

Perhaps the two most surprised and thrilled persons with the company are a pair of 13-year-olds, Elaine Sutter of Fremont and Richard Cleveland of Green Springs, stand-ins for Starlet Jeanne and Len McCollister. The latter plays the role of "Sparky."

They were selected for the parts while the company was in Fremont last week. "We don't know, but we hope so," was their answer to a query, "will you be going on to Lexington with the cast?" Miss Sutter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Sutter of Fremont, was "just watching the crowd" when she was approached for the job as stand-in. She was graduated from St. Joseph High school in Fremont last June, likes dancing, movies and other sports. She has never considered it but "wouldn't mind taking a try at the movies." Richard, a graduate of the Green Springs High school, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Cleveland of that place. He went to the fairgrounds in Fremont to drive a truck and was walking around the grounds when he got the job of going before the camera. "It's lots of fun," he says, and he would like to go in the movies. "That's out," he says, "I'm going into the Army next month."

With the weather unfavorable for outdoor "shootings" yesterday the cast and staff found plenty of entertainment on the track until Director Hathaway decided it was too late to picture, even if the sun did shine, and gave the order "wrap it up" which is studio language for "that's all for today."

BIRTHS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hildreth of 821 North State street this morning in City hospital.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blankenship of 213 Glad street in City hospital.

A daughter was born in City hospital to Mr. and Mrs. James Watts of 846 Woodrow avenue yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rowland of 1012 Bryant street are parents of a daughter born last night in City hospital.

ARE YOU SURE IT'S A SAFE PLACE FOR YOUR CAR?

IS RATIONING GARAGING YOUR CAR for longer periods? If so, look out. It means oil has more time than ever to drain down from, or dry off of, cylinder and piston walls, leaving them without effective lubrication when you start up.

IT TAKES TIME FOR THAT OIL to get back to those vital engine parts. That's why automotive experts say you can put as much wear on your motor in the first minute after you start up, as you would in up to 200 miles of normal, warmed-up driving.

V.E.P. ALLOYED-OIL "STAYS PUT." This entirely new, different oil has a "magnetic" action, which makes it cling to cylinder and piston walls for weeks at a time. No matter how little you drive, lubrication is there when and where it's needed.

Lick "start-up" damage...
switch to V.E.P. Alloyed-Oil

DON'T LET unnecessary "Start-Up" damage lay your car up for costly repairs that are difficult, sometimes impossible, to get. The fewer miles you drive, the more important they are. Change now to V.E.P., the new alloyed oil which, according to scientific tests, makes your motor last 50% longer than it would with ordinary oil. Start getting protection against "Start-Up" Damage... against sludge, carbon, varnish, corrosion... all greater threats under today's driving conditions.

Newspaper Appeal for Canteen Gets Quick Response

The women at the canteen for service men at the Union station are jubilant over the generous response to their appeal for grapes and other fall fruit to be placed in the baskets for men and women of the armed forces passing through Union station.

They received four bushels of grapes Tuesday evening after the appeal had been in The Star, Mrs. Eugene Willey, chairman of the canteen, said. Later, three other persons phoned that they had a bushel each to give to the canteen.

The grapes went out in a hurry—there were 500 boys on one train—and the fruit was lovely, Mrs. Willey said. "And no one could have enjoyed them more than the service men," she added.

Mrs. Willey praised the generosity of the citizens of the city and county in responding to the appeal.

Two Ohio Soldiers Win Medal for Heroism

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—Two Ohio soldiers, Pvt. Lawrence E. Sprague of Tontogony and Pvt. Raymond R. Judd of Navarre, have been awarded the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in action in New Guinea, the war department announced today.

Their identical citations read: "For extraordinary heroism in action near Tarkana, New Guinea, on Jan. 12, 1943. Volunteering as a member of a small patrol, he swam the swollen and rapidly flowing Komolbi river in broad daylight and under heavy enemy fire. With complete disregard for his own safety, and armed only with a pistol and hand grenades, he assisted in towing a rope to the opposite bank to aid the crossing of the river by a platoon of infantry. The successful accomplishment of this dangerous mission permitted the advance of the entire company and the securing of a bridgehead on the opposite shore."

Relatives have had word from William Francis Cain that he is in Africa. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Cain.

BIG BANKING CHAINS OPPOSED BY DELANO

pared for the second war-time conference of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks that earnings of banks with less than $500,000 resources were declining while those of larger banks were holding steady or rising. He described the small banks as "guardian outposts of our financial system" and added: "There has developed a disturbing disposition on the part of many small institutions willingly to forego their independence and become members of groups and chains which represent concentrated control of credit. It is understandable that this should happen but it is also extremely regrettable from the standpoint of the national good and our hope for a vigorous American individualism."

"The office of the comptroller of currency is anxious that whenever possible the independent bank shall continue to do its important job in our economy. We are opposed to the building up of great banking systems and chains which, by their very size and power, threaten the financial self-sufficiency of our small communities, and thus the independence of their industries, their agriculture, and their individuals."

LET'S GO!

HERE'S THAT INVASION YOU WANTED!

Now, let's get things straight.

"You don't know who I am. Maybe I'm your son, or brother, or buddy—maybe not. But I am the soldier who'll get the equipment your particular Bonds will buy.

"Do you get a new suit, or a permanent wave, or whatever it is you're looking to spend money on... or will you help pay for the tools to do this job for you?

"O.K. then—show me—Buy Bonds to the limit!"

You're in this INVASION. It's as simple as that.

Uncle Sam needs 15 billion dollars this month to pay for this INVASION...and there's no easy way out. If it's not a sacrifice, you're not doing your part. 10 per cent isn't enough—15 per cent isn't enough. Nothing is enough but every last cent you can turn into fighting War Bonds.

You're not giving, American—you're investing.

Investing in freedom, investing in a clear conscience, investing for future security.

And it's the soundest investment anyone ever made.

You'll have the money to educate your children, build your home, buy a car, when the war is won.

The least every American can do to put this over is to buy an extra $100 Bond in September. But that's the least—you can be counted on to do your level best, can't you? Get those War Bonds now—buy them out of income, buy them with idle, accumulated money—but buy all you can—and be glad to be an American!

CIRCUS

boasting seating accommodations for 14,500 persons, features a program this year that carries a strong military theme. Two of its super-special spectacles have "Let Freedom Ring" and "Drums of Victory" as their titles, and in addition the management donated a block of seats to the Marion county war bond drive, making the seats available only to persons buying special war bond tickets.

Marion circus fans will remember many of the headline performers from a previous visit of the "biggest show on earth," the last trip through Marion having been in 1939. The stars of former years are back, along with some new attractions. The circus showmen think enough of the old, reliable circus features to start off their program with a presentation billed as "Hold Your Horses," a reproduction of the circus street parade of 1898, leading off with a 30-piece band. In the parade will be faces familiar to a generation of circus-goers, including Fred Branda, equestrian director, his wife, Ella, riding her white Arabian horse, and Nellie Donegan at the steam callopo.

Old-Time Favorites
Other old-time favorites still on the bill include the clown fire house. The circus advertises a corps of 100 clowns headed by Felix Adler, "the king of clowns," and Emmet Kelly, tramp pantomimist.

In addition to a long list of favorites of past seasons, the circus is presenting this year the Loyal-Repenary family of bareback riders, the Reynolds & Donagan roller skating whirlwinds, Dr. Hermann Ostermaier and his horse ballet which features "hohoes," a dancing white stallion, the Asseveran equestrian troupe and Harry Rittler with his tower of toppling tables.

Property Boy at 14
At the age of 14 he went to the Universal studios as a property boy. For three years he continued in this role but at 18 quit that phase of the movie field to play juvenile roles. In 1918 he left the studio to join the Army as a gunnery instructor. After Armistice he spent a year with a traveling audit firm, but for a young man raised in the shadow of the movie cameras this was too dull a life. A year later he went to Paramount, again as a property man. His first chance came one day when an assistant director became ill and Hathaway was promoted to his job.

His friend and coach, the late Paul Bern, inspired him with the ambition to become a director. On Bern's advice, Hathaway scraped together enough money for a trip to India, where he planned to collect data for a movie idea which he wished to Hathaway started as a property boy at the age of 14. He went to the Universal studios as a property boy. For three years he continued in this role but at 18 quit that phase of the movie field to play juvenile roles. In 1918 he left the studio to join the Army as a gunnery instructor. After Armistice he spent a year with a traveling audit firm, but for a young man raised in the shadow of the movie cameras this was too dull a life. ## President Makes Report on War illies to get out of the war, mentioning Rumania, Hungary, Finland and Bulgaria. He said the allies have more information of "definite intent and a growing desire for peace" among their people, adding:

"We hope that in the nations the spirit of revolt against Nazi domination will be kindled and Italy will burst into flame and become a consuming fire."

Praises Russian Help
Mr. Roosevelt praised Russia's sledge hammer blows against the Nazis and at the same time gave what appeared to be an answer to some Russian complaints that the allies have not drawn off enough German strength from the Russian front.

He said it was certain that the campaign in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, plus the engaging of large numbers of German planes in the skies over western Europe, "have given important help to the Russian armies along their advancing front from Leningrad to the Black sea."

"We know, too," he said, "that we are contributing to that advance by making Germany keep many divisions in the Balkans, in southern France and along the English channel. I like to think that these words constitute an understatement."

In general, it was a confident, optimistic picture which Mr. Roosevelt drew of the progress of the war. But he held out no hope whatever that the fighting could be concluded at an early date, and he warned against overconfidence and urged continuation and acceleration of America's production of fighting gear and supplies.

He gave a four-point summation of the war in telling Congress that "we are still a long way from ultimate victory in any major theater of the war." These were his points:

First, despite substantial victories in the Mediterranean, "we face a hard, and costly fight through Italy," and a major task of organizing positions before they can be taken advantage of.

Second, from bases in Britain, "we must be sure that we have assembled the strength to strike not just in one direction, but in many directions,—by land and sea and in the air—with overwhelming forces and equipment."

Third, the Russian armies still have a long way to go to get into Germany itself, despite their magnificent counter-offensive.

Fourth, the Japanese remain firmly established on an enormous front from the Kuriles islands in the north to the Solomons in the south and Burma and China in the east, and to break through their defensive ring, "we must hit them and hit them hard. Not merely at one point but at many points and we must keep on hitting them."

At the outset of the message, his first major communication to Congress since its summer recess, Mr. Roosevelt asserted:

"The Congress and the American people can rest assured that the landing on Italy is not the only landing we have in mind. That landing was planned at Casablanca."

Other Plans Made
At Quebec, the leaders and the military staffs of Great Britain and the United States made specific and precise plans to bring to bear further blows of equal or greater importance against Germany and Japan—with definite times and places for other landings on the continent of Europe and elsewhere.

The downfall of Mussolini, whom he ridiculed as "the enigma of Italy for a generation," the Chief Executive declared, "must be followed by other and similar encouraging downfalls."

"But there is one thing," he added, "I want to make perfectly clear: When Hitler and the Nazis go out, the Prussian military clique must go with them. The war-breeding kungs of militarists must be rooted out of Germany—out of Japan—if we are to have any real assurance of future peace."

Discussing the air assaults on Europe, the President remarked that Hitler had failed to provide a roof on a European fortress which he boasted was impregnable. Hitler also left various other vulnerable spots in the wall of the fortress which Mr. Roosevelt declared, will be pointed out to him in due time.

It is now the purpose of Britain and America, he said, to set up "bomber bases from which 'devastating war' will be brought home to southern and eastern Germany."

Concerning that German power still could do great injury to the allied cause, the President said nevertheless "evil power" was being destroyed inexorably, day by day, and if Hitler does not know it by now, then the last trace of it has departed from that discredited monster.

The freeing of the Mediterranean, Mr. Roosevelt predicted, will lead directly to resumption of complete allied control of the eastern Indian ocean and Bay of Bengal, permitting thrusts at Japan on what he termed another "highly vulnerable flank." On the Italian front in allied hands, the formidable British naval strength is free to proceed eastward, he said, to join in the attack on the Japanese.

And, he said, as a result of the Mediterranean victory the one serious gap in allied seapower, between northwest Australia and Ceylon, now can be closed.

Australian Threat Gone
Shifting his analysis further into the Pacific, the Chief Executive said the threat to Australia and New Zealand across the Coral sea had been "practically dissipated" by allied seizure of air bases in the Solomon islands. In fact, he said, the allies now offer a threat of their own against the Japanese in the seas north of the Solomons and New Guinea.

He forecast, too, an offensive in Burma, to end a long period of defensive strategy and he spoke of the strike when "we are ready to strike right at the heart of Japan itself."

The Chief Executive had relatively little to say of post-war plans and policies but he ended his message with one pertinent paragraph.

"Finally, as the war progresses," he said, "we seek a national operation with the nations toward the end that world aggression be ended and that fair international relationships be established on a permanent basis. The policy of the good neighbor has shown such success in the hemispheres of the Americas that its extension to the whole world seems to be the logical next step. In that way, we can begin to build a faith with our sons and daughters who are fighting for freedom and justice and security at home and abroad."

His rapid reference also was sought between the executive and legislative branches of the American government to give citizens security in their standard of living. But he emphasized that winning the war is of the first importance.

Study Problems Now
Many problems, including eventual demobilization, should be studied now, he said, necessary legislation should be enacted, Mr. Roosevelt said. But he offered no concrete proposals along these lines.

Referring to one point to the secret negotiations which led to Italian capitulation, the Chief Executive said there would be many more situations in the war in which it would be impossible for him to give an indication of the policy the government pursued.

He said it was difficult to remain silent when "unjustified attack and criticism are leveled by those not in a position to have all the facts, but he asserted the people and Congress should be sure that the policy which we follow is an expression of the basic democratic traditions and ideals of the republic."

"We shall not be able to claim," he continued, "that we have gained total victory in any of our military forms is permitted to survive anywhere in the world."

Urging that there be no lull in the war effort at home, Mr. Roosevelt said the allies now have a definite superiority, on the European front, in almost all weapons.

A mathematical progression also operates in the toll being taken of Japanese merchant and war ships, he said.

"However," he cautioned, "unless we keep up and increase the tempo of our present rate of production, this greater strength in planes and guns, tanks and ships can all be lost."

Admitting worries in June and July over a reduction in the rate of increase in production, Mr. Roosevelt said he was happy to report the increase was resumed in August and that September's record was even better.

Again, however, he gave an admonition, saying nothing could be more costly in lives than to adopt an attitude that the war has been won or nearly won.

Kiwanians Push Ticket Sales for Army Relief Fund Show

Henry Krigbaum, chairman of the ticket sales for the premier of "This Is the Army" which will be shown at the Ohio theater Tuesday under the sponsorship of Kiwanis, reported Thursday at a luncheon-meeting of the club that over half of the seats have already been reserved. Additional tickets were distributed to the members and Mr. Krigbaum warned that reservations should be made in advance if at all possible.

Casey Shawman, press agent for the 20th Century Fox troupe here for the filming of racing scenes of "Home in Indiana," was guest speaker at the meeting, held at Hotel Harding. He explained why Marion had been chosen as the locale for the scenes and also gave some highlights of the picture.

He also gave a brief character sketch of the players appearing in the movie and talked generally of other actors and actresses in the motion picture industry. He concluded his talk with the statement that the company is appreciative of the reception given them in Marion.

It was announced that the results of the election of officers for the coming year would be given at the next meeting. Balloting is being done by mail.

Opening La Rue Auction Held

The first LaRue war bond auction to be held during the annual fall festival was opened last night at 10 with John Parr of Richmond and John Dutton of Agosta as auctioneers. Bonds totaling $5,900 were sold before rain interrupted the auction. Two pigs brought bids of $2,200 and $1,000 and was purchased by Keith Ridgway and D. C. Ridgway respectively. Other hard-to-get items were offered at the auction and brought smaller sums from the bidders.

Similar auctions will be held tonight and Saturday nights at 10. The sales are sponsored by the Clarence Philippi Post No. 101 of the American Legion at LaRue. Proceeds from the festival will be used to purchase war bonds which will be used to build a Legion club house after the war, officials said. In a fund already is now $2,100 that purpose there is now $2,100 in bonds. Heiding the committee in charge of arrangements is Dwight Sager, post commander. ## Bond Show Nets $750,000 went quickly to $100,000, then $150,000, to $200,000 and was finally knocked off at $250,000.

With this encouragement, Mrs. Streitz called for more donations. Brennan laid out a piece of stage money. This went from five, ten, fifteen, twenty thousand and was sold for $25,000. By this time the big money bidders, representing industrial concerns, were warming up to the occasion and when Strietz Jeanne Crain offered her handkerchief for sale, the odd bid started at $10,000. Mrs. Streitz had difficulty in keeping up with $5,000 increases that finally ended at $50,000.

Orchids Bring $50,000
Starlet June Haver's orchids started at $25,000 and in four bids were sold at $50,000.

It took Ward Bond to top the evening and end the sale. In high spirit for the party, Bond had been getting laughs from the audience all during the auction and when he offered a pocket piece the bidding started at $10,000. Two more bids took the price to $50,000. Two bidders in the back row were not to be beaten. The bid went to $75,000, lagged a bit and then hit $80,000 and $85,000. There was another pause before another $10,000 was offered to take the bid to $95,000.

Mrs. Streitz waited a moment then called for another $5,000. There was no bid. Bond pulled off his coat with the challenge, "make it $100,000 and I'll throw in my coat."

The bid was increased to $100,000 and Bond went to the rear of the theater to deliver the coat. The purchaser, however, offered to trade coats and Bond, whose proportions are so generous that he once was cast as John L. Sullivan, returned to the stage with a coat that fit too soon in all directions.

As the sale ended and the theater program was resumed Elmer J. Schoenbaum, county war bond chairman, expressed the gratitude of the county committee for the response.

The party opened at 8 p. m. with a half hour of newsreels and movie shorts.

At 8:30 Mr. Planck took over as master of ceremonies. Invocation was spoken by Rev. Fr. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church.

Mr. Planck announced that Lon McAllister, a member of the movie unit, could not be present as he had been held over in Fremont where other scenes for the picture were being taken.

Two other major lines, through Gotha and Simpon tunnels, are closed to military traffic because they go through neutral Switzerland.

Thus the only unbombed route leading into Italy from the west is a secondary line along the Mediterranean coast, and this has been reported extensively sabotaged.

ST. MARY OPENS SEASON TONIGHT; HARDING PLAYS SATURDAY

Presidents To Meet Mansfield Tygers Irish To Get Under Lights at 8 p. m.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

The football Presidents of Harding High school this afternoon were set to wind up preparations for the Mansfield Tyger struggle illuminated under the lamps at Harding stadium tomorrow night. The season opener for both the Prexies and the roaring Tygers will get under way at 8 p. m.

Mansfield and its followers, in addition to some local grid-iron devotees, may be giving the favorites a night to the Tygers. However, there are some local football enthusiasts and some very close to the Harding football affairs who are almost dead-sure that the Hardingites will defeat the Tygers.

Couch Vic Dorris of Harding, although he is not so extreme in his prediction about the 1943 inaugural as the latter class of prognosticators, nevertheless knows that his 33 peppy Presidents have a good chance of plastering the Mansfielders with their first defeat of the season.

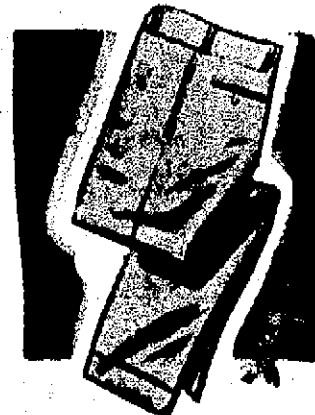

Dorris convinced that his boys have come a long way in three weeks of fall practice, says, "I wouldn't be surprised if we beat Mansfield. If the boys play the way they have in practices and with the spirit they have shown, they're likely to take the Tygers. Mansfield certainly won't push us all over the field."

Mansfield has some highly rated material to put the Dorris statement to a severe test. However, the Tygers are not a heavy bunch of footballers to the usual Mansfield High school grid outfit.

Coach Paul Snyder of Mansfield reported today that he has three backs who can be relied upon for some accurate and consistent passing. They are Russell McBridge, 150-pound fullback, Roland Schmidt, wingback, and Dominic Musille, 120-pound fullback. Guy is expected to call signals for the visitors.

Key Players Lost

Marion has been hampered as a football unit by the loss of three key players to the Armed forces. They are Larry Daly, back, and Charley Lust and Frank Louck, both guards. However, the Tygers have been equally as hard hit by Uncle Sam. Jerry Zeller, fullback, and Haas, and Frank Miller, both tackles have been drafted.

Irish To Get First Test at Willis Field

St. Mary's high school football outfit, administered possibly tell-tale blows by Dame Fortune in the form of injuries to key players during practices, will do the best it can with a depleted roster against the Delaware Black Panthers at Delaware tonight. Kick-off time will be 8 o'clock.

Four Irish first-team performers and lettermen from the 1942 squad have been injured in drills at Lincoln park during the past two weeks.

One of the cripples, Steve Norris, senior back, will not even be in uniform tonight although he will make the trip to Delaware tonight. Lane McCrate, new St. Mary coach, announced today, Norris, a versatile triple-threat, suffered a split lip and cut tongue in a scrimmage on the bumpy Lincoln park ball field last Thursday. He has not participated in any practices since then.

Injuries Hit Two
Kent Damm and Danny MacDonald, both seniors and Mac-

Donald, a tackle and tackle respectively, are two other injuries who although they probably won't start against the Panthers, nevertheless will see "some" action, according to McCrate. Damm's head was lacerated on a piece of glass in a scrimmage on Labor Day. MacDonald cracked a few ribs last week on the irregular Lincoln terrain.

Damm last night donned his grid pants for the first time in St. Mary's uniform. MacDonald also returned to practice last week but, McCrate said he will be forced to send these two lettermen into the Delaware fray sometime tonight to bolster the Irish line, in case it weakens against the hard-smashing Panthers.

Frank Tobin, senior end, is the final Irish injury within the past two weeks. He suffered an ankle injury last Saturday in a fast-moving practice game. He was able to join in on some grueling workouts for the first last night. McCrate said he probably will be started at one of the wings.

McCrates said today his entire starting line would not be announced until a few minutes before game time tonight. However, he adds that Capt. Dan "Buck" Kelly, 200-pound center and the team's heaviest, will undoubtedly be used at the snapper-back spot tonight. Kelly, a senior, is expected to sparkplug the Irish forward wall this year.

Seven Backs Carried
Only seven backs will be carried for the Delaware encounter, Coach McCrate said. The tentative starting backfield is as follows: Jim Lawler, junior, right halfback; John Werley, junior, fullback; Dan McGinnis, senior, left halfback; and Ed Simmons, junior, quarterback. Werley is the heaviest of this quartet, coming in at around 185.

Mentor McCrate bemoans the fact that there is not much celebrity in the St. Mary backfield this season. He said today, "There is no real fast man in our backfield. We certainly could stand some speed."

However, he believes that McGinnis is the most dangerous runner of the four although he, too, lacks rapidity in motion. According to McCrate, McGinnis "doesn't seem to travel fast but is hard to bring down."

The St. Mary passing game still is in the experimental stages. Whether the aerial route will be a main part of the Irish offense this season will be largely determined by the results it effects in tonight's game with Delaware.

Third Racing Meet of Year Opens at Fairground Track

By LOREN W. TIBBALS

Marion's third harness racing meet of the year opened yesterday afternoon at the Marion county fairground with less than 500 persons on hand to watch the trotters and pacers in action in an interesting nine-dash program and to see opening scenes of "Home in Indiana" filmed. Climactic scenes for the movie, a $2,000,000 technical production based on George Agnew Chamberlain's novel, "The Phantom Filly," are being photographed at the Marion track.

Yesterday's inaugural session of a three-day matinee speed program was delayed one hour because of the condition of the track. Although the track was muddy at the scheduled starting time at 2 o'clock, track workers had the track in "fair" racing condition within an hour.

Because of the hold up in starting the races, the first event, the 24 class pace, was scratched from the card. If possible, it will be raced later in the meeting, track officials said.

Serving in the judges' stand for the opening program were Harry H. Hartman of Quakertown, Pa., starter; Dr. H. W. Parshall of Urbana, presiding judge; and Dr. N. S. Sifert of Marion, judges. Outriders were Russell and Laura May Wickersham.

Yesterday's opening event, the 12 class pace, was won by Morate, a bay owned by C. W. Phillips of Greenwich, Conn., and driven by Fred Eagen of Aikin, S. C. Mr. Phillips is president of the Grand Circuit. The handsome bay topped the first heat in a dazzling burst in the stretch. Czarevitch, a Volante-stroed bay gelding owned by Dave Harvey of Detroit, Mich., topped the second heat with Morate finishing in fourth place. Blue Boy, piloted by Jackie Mahoney and owned by the Saunders Mills stable of Toledo, won the third heat, while Morate, winner in the summaries, was second. The Blue one scored in the best time of the three heats, covering the mile in 2:11 1/2.

Bonnie Volo, a winner at Marion's spring meeting, added to her spring victory in coping with the second heat in the summaries in the $500 stake in the summaries. Handled by Canadian Clint Hodgins, Bonnie finished 3-2-1, trailing Charlie Fleming's flashy side-wheel, Mose Dale, in the first heat and The Colonel, a Springfield-owned hopeful, in the second go. The Colonel, a heavy favorite with the handful of fans on hand, paced his winning mile in 2:10, yesterday's lowest time for the mile.

Harry Fitzpatrick of Springfield, Ill., who is headed for the 1943 national driving crown, scored victories with Lou Reynolds, a bay mare, in the second and third heats of the 18 class trot to continue his bid for the (national driving) championship. Harry finished fourth behind Jay

Clinching of Pennants Near

By The Associated Press
The pennants in both the National and American leagues may be clinched tomorrow and Sunday.

The Yankees have upset the calculations of the figure fixers by winning nine consecutive games, their longest victory string since they put together 11 in a row in July, 1942, and now they have a chance to tie down the American league pennant mathematically in a three-game series opening tonight with the Washington Senators.

If the Yanks can sweep the series, a single encounter tonight at Washington and a doubleheader Sunday, they will be "in". Yesterday the Yanks polished off the Philadelphia Athletics 5-1 with a four-run seventh-inning rally climaxed by Charley Keller's 28th home run and second in two days with a mate aboard. It was the last meeting of the year for the two clubs and gave the Yanks 16 out of 22 games with the A's this season.

If New York fails to nail the pennant Sunday the clincher will be delayed at least until next Wednesday because Monday and Tuesday are open dates for all clubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who clinched the Chicago Cubs 7-5 yesterday, might eliminate the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow night, but will have to wait at least until tomorrow before freezing out the Cincinnati Reds.

This is because the Dodgers had a game at Boston cancelled Wednesday. Thus the Cardinal "com-

Group of Migrating Butterflies Seen Here Last Night

Migrating butterflies—thousands of them—were seen last night about 6 o'clock. Thomas D. Bain of Sheridan road, biologist instructor at Harding High School, watched them, and said they extended in three directions as far as he could see. They didn't darken the sky, because they weren't flying close together.

Mr. Bain identified them as the Monarch or milkweed butterfly, common to this part of the country. However, many of them migrate as far north as the southern states, and some fall comes they travel to southern states, mostly Texas and Florida.

Mr. Bain said that usually their migration route does not bring them over this part of the country, and that he has not had reports of such migration over central Ohio in recent years.

His son, Jimmy, 13, noticed them last night and called to Mr. Bain. The butterflies have a wing spread of about four inches, and are a brick-brown color with black markings.

Mr. Bain asked Marion residents noticing any additional groups of them flying over the city to notify him.

The past twenty-four hours have produced three notable achievements for allied arms.

First in American hearts must come the good news that the gallant American and British troops on the bloody beaches of Salerno not only have made secure their bridgehead but have seized the initiative and are on the offensive.

Our boys have weathered the initial stage of a nasty German storm.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I SWITCHED on my memory at Mary's question, and a fraction of a second later was ready to answer it.

"I remember they were to be addressed to 'Jim' and to be signed 'Sam,'" I answered, and Mary, who was ruffling the leaves of the code book, smiled as she paused to look at a page before glancing up at me.

"You and that memory of yours!" she exclaimed. "I had a hazy idea that it was 'Jack' and 'Sam,' but your recollection is absolutely right."

Mary Terrorstruck

She paused, and I saw the shadow on her eyes which sudden terror brings.

"Suppose we're too late with all this, Auntie Maudie?" she said. "Remember, she's telling us that they're preparing to make her walk the plank when they're through with her. And that other message she so cunningly got through to us in the letter she wrote at her indignation, but she wrote it so cleverly, warned us that as soon as they got the information they wanted they would rub her out. Do you suppose that when they finally make up their minds that they're going to fall in getting that information about Jack Bickett, that they'll—"

Her voice trailed off, evidently unable to complete the sentence. I braced myself to encourage her with words that I was afraid were too sophistry.

Made Reassures Mary

"I don't think we'll have to worry about that for several

Army Problem

A friend of mine who has for many years been a psychologist, and whose body of one of our large universities has achieved a part of great official fame in army and navy circles during the last year, told me that all the student problems in his university were sent to him for study and possible adjustment. Student problems, of course, range all the way from consistently poor grades and multiple failure in classes on up.

My friend has kept very careful and meticulous records and, some of which cover a period of four years. About a year ago he handled about a thousand of them and explained to the authorities why these men would be no good to the fighting forces, but only pure trouble, and should be rejected for service.

He has proved right in so many instances that had already been tried out that he was asked to submit his whole list and his recommendations are saving the taxpayers thousands, perhaps millions, of dollars. That ought to rule him a case of thanks alone when nobody else is even considering saving the taxpayer any money.

Probably the most serious medical problem of the armed forces today is the extent of mental breakdowns which require care or dismissal. At least numerically it constitutes the largest group and to that extent is the most serious problem.

In July, 1918, General Pershing sent this cablegram from overseas: "Prominence of mental disorders in replacement troops recently received suggests importance of efforts in eliminating mentally unfit prior to departure from the United States."

An intensive effort is being made to prevent the recurrence of this situation this time. Many soldiers are refused at the induction center. But we still have to return one out of every 200 soldiers to their homes on account of mental unfitness and the number of nervous and mental cases in our army hospitals is about 3 per 100 cases.

She wrote rapidly for a few seconds, then looked up at me. "And now, what is necessary for her to know?"

I considered for several seconds while Mary bit the end of her pencil, and stared into space.

"We want to let her know," I said, at last, slowly, "that the restaurant is going to be watched and her rescue attempted; that she can contact the man, Crump, safely; and that she must hold herself watchful and ready to rush from her captors to Father's men at the first opportunity presented."

"That's quite an order," Mary said despondently. "To get over to her without their getting suspicious. And I haven't an idea in my head. Have you?"

"Only a faint glimmering of one," I said, and Mary laughed joyously.

"It's as good as done!" she cried extravagantly. "I know you and your 'glimmerings' of old! But for the love of Mike and all the other archangels, don't hurry. Lie back, relax, go into the silence, and I'll bet you'll come out of it with the nildest idea in seven counties."

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Sept. 18

TODAY'S ASTRAL aspects are of great significance in social, artistic and domestic relations, in which there may be more than ordinary functions or celebrations, this probably in a way of promotion, honors, preferment or favors from those in high places. It is a propitious time for such distinctions, but with some circumspection in regard to subtle influences or intrigues that might unfold doubtful documents. Likewise be cautious with writings or signatures. Those whose birthday it is may hope for a prized promotion, honor, favor or token of preferment, with the friendliest of feelings. These in power and high standing. There is likely to be much social celebration in honor of this distinction. In business relations, men are cautious and in all matters beware of entangling alliances which might in turn prove regrettable. Aim high for worthwhile promotion or progress.

A child born on this day should be endowed with much versatility, artistic ability and ambition, which should elicit the friendly support of superiors, employers, or those in high station and influence.
